This Week's Reflection from Catholic Social Teaching The Popes on Socialism

Socialism, even after it has yielded to truth and justice on the points which we have mentioned, cannot be reconciled with the teachings of the Catholic Church because its concept of society itself is utterly foreign to Christian truth. (Pope Pius IX)

REFLECT: “Too often Christians attracted by socialism tend to idealize it in terms which...are very general: a will for justice, solidarity and equality. They refuse to recognize the limitations of the historical socialist movements.” (Pope Paul VI)

“The fundamental error of socialism is anthropological in nature. Socialism considers the individual person simply as an element, a molecule within the social organism, so that the good of the individual is completely subordinated to the functioning of the socioeconomic mechanism. Socialism likewise maintains that the good of the individual can be realized without reference to his free choice, to the unique and exclusive responsibility which he exercises in the face of good or evil. Man is thus reduced to a series of social relationships, and the concept of the person as the autonomous subject of moral decision disappears, the very subject whose decisions build the social order.” (Pope John Paul II)

“They debase the natural union of man and woman, which is held sacred even among barbarous peoples; and its bond, by which the family is chiefly held together, they weaken.... [For example] the child belongs to the [family] before it attains the use of free will, under the power and the charge of its parents. The socialists, in setting aside the parent and setting up a State supervision, act against natural justice, and destroy the structure of the home.” (Pope Leo XIII)

“The State which would provide everything, absorbing everything into itself, would ultimately become a mere bureaucracy incapable of guaranteeing the very thing which... every person needs: namely, loving personal concern.... In the end, the claim that just social structures would make works of charity superfluous masks a materialist conception of man...a conviction that demeans man and ultimately disregards all that is specifically human. (Pope Benedict XVI)
